

Seminar Report: Eco-Restoration and Environmental Awareness in Crisis Management

On 5th June 2021 (Saturday), the IQAC (Internal Quality Assurance Cell) and Green Club of Vidyasagar College for Women organized an enlightening seminar to commemorate World Environment Day. Despite the challenges posed by the pandemic, the seminar successfully convened online via Google Meet, with 177 participants actively engaging in the discussions.

The distinguished speakers for the event were:

1. Dr. Priya Banerjee

Designation: Assistant Professor

Field of Expertise: Environmental Studies

Affiliation: Center for Distance and Online Education (CDOE), Rabindra Bharati University

2. Dr. Saumik Panja

Designation: Assistant Biosafety Officer

Affiliation: University of California, Merced

Key Topics of Discussion:

- In her insightful presentation, Dr. Banerjee delved into the critical theme of Restoration and Reclamation of Water Resources through Integrated Processes. Her expertise shed light on sustainable practices to safeguard our precious water ecosystems.
- Dr. Panja's talk centered around the "Ecological Risk Assessment of Covid-19 Pandemic". He emphasized the need to understand the environmental implications of the pandemic and how we can mitigate its impact.

Outcomes and Impact:

- Environmental Awareness: The seminar not only disseminated knowledge but also ignited a sense of environmental consciousness among the participants. By addressing pressing issues related to eco-restoration and crisis management, it empowered attendees to take informed actions in their communities.
- Continuity Amid Challenges: Despite the pandemic-induced constraints, the virtual platform allowed for seamless knowledge exchange. Such programs serve as a testament to our collective commitment to environmental stewardship, even during tough times.

In conclusion, this seminar exemplified how education, collaboration, and awareness can drive positive change for our planet.
